FYI ...

Broomfield ranks well in Colorado for child well-being, health outcomes, health factors

Broomfield residents, businesses, non-profit agencies, schools, faith-based organizations and government agencies all contribute to creating a healthy community and a great place to raise children. Recent studies indicate that this collaboration is working, and working well.

KIDS COUNT is a national and state-by-state project of the Annie E. Casey Foundation which tracks the status of children in the United States. The Colorado Children's Campaign produces KIDS COUNT in Colorado! as part of that project.

This year's KIDS COUNT in Colorado! takes a close look at how 25 of Colorado's largest counties compare across 12 child well-being indicators. Modeled after the state child well-being comparisons published every year by the Annie E. Casey Foundation in the national KIDS COUNT Data Book, this year's KIDS COUNT in Colorado! report includes a Colorado Child Well-Being Index.

The index uses 12 measurable indicators to compare child well-being by county in the areas of health, education, and family and community. Based on the composite index, Broomfield ranked second in the State of Colorado in overall child well-being. The full report is available online at www.coloradokids.org.

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and the University of Wisconsin's Population Health Institute have released the third annual County Health Rankings. Nearly every county in the country is ranked on health outcomes (how healthy we are) and on health factors (how healthy we can be). Examples of specific measures used to calculate the rankings include: adult smoking, obesity, binge drinking, access to primary care physicians, rates of high school graduation, rates of violent crime, air pollution levels, unemployment rates and number of children living in poverty.

Broomfield ranks sixth in Colorado with regard to health outcomes and seventh with regard to health factors. The full report is available online at www.countyhealthrankings.org.

Anniversary video wins Telly

The Telly Awards has named Broomfield's anniversary video, Broomfield: Spirit of the American Dream, a bronze winner in its 32nd annual awards program. The award recognizes Havey Productions and The City and County of Broomfield. There were nearly 11,000 entries from all 50 states and numerous countries in the 2011 program.

This is the first Telly for Broomfield. Broomfield: Spirit of the American Dream was entered in the Government Relations category.

A judging panel of over 500 accomplished industry professionals, each a past winner of a Silver Telly and a member of The Silver Telly Council, judged the competition, upholding the historical standard of excellence that Telly represents.

The Silver Council evaluated entries to recognize distinction in creative work. Entries do not compete against each other but are judged against a high standard of merit. Less than 10 percent of entries are chosen as Winners of the Silver Telly, the highest honor. Approximately 25 percent of entries are chosen as Winners of the Bronze Telly.

The Telly Awards was founded in 1979 and is the premier award honoring outstanding local, regional, and cable TV commercials and programs, the finest video and film productions, and online commercials, video and films. Winners represent the best work of the most respected advertising agencies, production companies, television stations, cable operators, and corporate video departments in the world.

Broomfield: Spirit of the American Dream begins at the dawn of the twentieth century when settlers and ranchers in the Broomfield area were drawn to the hilly land away from the growing cities for its clean air, expansive vistas and country charm. These same qualities inspired suburban pioneers in the 1950s to create a unique development on this land, featuring streets curved to the rolling contours of Broomfield Heights. Broomfield's story reveals how Colorado's first Master Planned Community — the city by the Turnpike — embodied the new spirit of the American dream.

The video was produced to commemorate Broomfield's 50th anniversary as a city and tenth as a combined city and county. Its premier was July 4, 2011. It has been shown on Colorado PBS Channel 6, and is available on demand on the Broomfieldgov YouTube channel and on demand on the city's website. Copies on DVD are for sale at the Community Assistance desk in the George Di Ciero City and County Building, 1 DesCombes Drive.

Annual water report goes out in June

During June, Broomfield's water customers will receive a brochure containing information summarizing the quality of Broomfield's drinking water during the 2011 calendar year. The monitoring results contained in the report confirm the high quality of Broomfield's drinking water. Last year, as in years past, Broomfield's drinking water met or surpassed all of the applicable standards for the protection of public health, as well as the recommended levels for aesthetic qualities.

This report fulfills a regulatory requirement established by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in 1998, which requires community water systems to distribute annual "Consumer Confidence Reports" containing specific information about drinking water contaminants, possible contaminant sources, water sources, type of treatment, and health risks.

Broomfield's 2011 report summarizes the monitoring results for drinking water and includes water quality information for both the Broomfield water system and Denver Water supplies. As required by the regulation, the report lists the highest contaminant levels detected in drinking water customers could have received during the previous calendar year. (If the level reported for Denver Water was equal to or greater than Broomfield's level, then Denver's data are listed in the table. The source of the data is identified by footnotes in the report.)

The Water Quality Report is distributed to all billed customers as a bill-stuffer in the June water bills. To reach non-billed consumers, Public Works personnel also deliver reports to apartment complexes and mobile home parks, and place copies in locations such as the Library and City and County Building. The report is also posted on the website, along with additional information that may be of interest to the community.

Broomfield named 'Playful City'

Today's children spend less time playing outside than any previous generation, but 213 cities and towns, including Broomfield, earned recognition from national non-profit KaBOOM! as 2012 Playful City USA communities for their efforts to increase play opportunities for children.

According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, play is critical to healthy brain development. It allows children to use their creativity while simultaneously developing imagination, dexterity and physical, cognitive and emotional strength. Yet today's children spend less time playing outside than any previous generation in part because only 1-in-5 live within walking distance of a park or playground. The resulting play deficit is having profound consequences for kids physically, socially and academically.

Presented by The Humana Foundation, Playful City USA is a national program advocating for local policies that increase play opportunities for children and is a key platform in combating the play deficit.

KaBOOM!, the national non-profit organization dedicated to saving play, created Playful City USA in 2007 to help local governments address the play deficit and it is through mayors, city council members, parks and recreation departments, school districts and community leaders that the program succeeds in benefitting children.

Hailing from 41 states, the 213 Playful City USA honorees range in size from six-time honorees such as Orlando and Phoenix to first-time recipients like Broomfield and Independence, Oregon (population: 9,607). These Playful City USA communities are making a commitment to play and physical activity by developing unique local action plans to increase the quantity and quality of play in their community.

Each of the 2012 Playful City USA communities demonstrated creative commitments to addressing the play deficit. Playful City USA celebrates and highlights these unique initiatives developed by communities across the country. A primary goal of Playful City USA is to encourage cities and towns to share ideas, concepts and programs in an effort to increase play opportunities for children.

KaBOOM! selected Broomfield for its outstanding dedication to play. Broomfield places a strong emphasis on providing play spaces within close proximity to each resident and aims to connect them with a sidewalk or trail system. To increase access further, a city ordinance requires that each new housing development provides 16 acres of land or a play space for every 1,000 people.

The 213 Playful City USA communities are now eligible for $15,000, $20,000 and $30,000 grants via Let's Play, a community partnership led by Dr Pepper Snapple Group, to get kids and families active nationwide. Grant recipients will be announced on June 4, 2012.

For more information on the KaBOOM! Playful City USA program, including Let's Play grants and applications for 2013, visit www.playfulcityusa.org.

Volunteers in Sawmill room make election boxes for November election

A crew of volunteers spearheaded by supervisors at the Broomfield Community Center's Sawmill Room, are creating 16 election boxes for use by the Broomfield Elections Division.

When existing boxes were deemed inadequate for current needs and bids collected for this project reflected $1,600 for the purchase of each election box, Elections staff approached Recreation Services to discuss the possibility of making the boxes in-house with volunteer help.

To date, there are eight boxes completed, 130 volunteer hours donated, and only $250 spent. It is projected that the total cost for all 16 election boxes will be about $3,000 as compared to $25,600 from an outside source, saving Broomfield $22,000.

Notices of Value went out May 1

Broomfield Assessor John Storb sent Notices of Value postcards to all real property owners whose property values have changed since the 2011 Reappraisal. This year, as a way to save money, the Notices of Value were a postcard. Storb encouraged property owners to examine the notice carefully. Taxes paid in 2013 will be based upon this value, Storb said.

Because 2012 is not a reappraisal year, most values will not have changed from last year. Notices only go to owners whose properties have changes in value. Value changes can be from new construction, additions or remodels to the existing structure, changes in land status, or changes in property use.

The values should represent market value as of June 30, 2010, based upon what existed on the property as of January 1, 2012. Sales from January 1, 2009 through June 30, 2010 were used to establish this value.

Storb also noted that the month of May is reserved for appeals of the valuation. Property owners may visit the assessor and discuss any concerns they may have regarding the value placed on their property. Broomfield appraisal staff will be available, ready to answer questions and help owners understand the property tax system. They will explain the property's value, show comparable sales in the area and go over the property characteristics with the owner. All taxpayers were notified of their appeal rights on their 2012 tax bills, mailed in January.

The goal of all Colorado assessors is to establish fair and equitable values for all taxable property in the state. If there are any mistakes in legal description, ownership, mailing address, property classification, or property attributes, or to question the value, property owners must visit the Broomfield Assessor Department or mail back the bottom portion of the Notice of Valuation. By Colorado state statute, this must be done on or before June 1, 2012 to generate a review of the value.

Broomfield's Assessor Department is located in the west wing of the George DiCiero City and County Building, 1 DesCombes Drive, in Broomfield. Personnel in the Central Records Office are prepared to assist and direct questions any taxpayer may have. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Please call 303.464.5819 with any questions or to schedule an appointment. For online information, visit www.broomfield.org and click on the Assessor under QUICK LINKS.

Public Works Week May 21 to 27

This public education campaign calls attention to the importance of public works in community life.

The week seeks to enhance the public's knowledge of the day-to-day work of those professionals who serve the public good every day with quiet dedication. It is a celebration of the tens of thousands of men and women in North America who provide and maintain the infrastructure and services collectively known as public works.

The Broomfield Public Works Department consists of nine divisions: Environmental Services, Facilities, Fleet, Parks, Streets, Utilities, Wastewater Reclamation, Water Resources and Water Treatment. The week-long displays will contain pictures of staff at work providing services to the community, equipment and buildings.

FINANCE

Sales Tax - The Sales Tax Division offers one-on-one sales tax education and information to new and existing retail vendors as part of the council's priority to assist and support local business. The staff's top goal in the education effort is to make sure businesses understand the fiscal requirements of having a business in Broomfield.

Typical topics covered in these sessions include:

- Compliance requirements
- Explanation of Broomfield sales tax regulation
- Reporting responsibility
- Advantages of filing online
- Answers to vendor questions and concerns

Interested vendors can contact sales tax at 303-464-5811 or email salestax@broomfield.org

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

CSU Extension - 4-H Archery kicked off its season on Tuesday, April 17, with the first practice session. Even though it got a little windy, the members were all very excited to be starting practices at the outdoor range. A special thanks goes to the city for providing a location where the 4-H members could shoot.

Workforce – April Job Club activities continue to be well attended. On April 3, there were 27 attendees. The topic was "The Hidden Job Market." On April 10, there were 37 attendees who met to hear about "Experienced Workers."

Hiring events included seven in March and three in April. In March, 47 job seekers attended. Employers participating included: Aerotek seeking machinists, diesel technicians, lead generation specialists, material handlers, outbound sales staff and production techs; Sears Home Improvement seeking marketing representatives and Stevens Transport seeking over-the-road CDLA Drivers.

In April, there were three on-site hiring events, and 52 job seekers attended. Participating were Aerotek seeking customer service, material handler, and test technician applicants; and Select Staffing seeking bakery production, sanitation, quality assurance, CNC machinist, industrial sewing operator and production worker applicants.

HUMAN RESOURCES

During 2012, Human Resources is sponsoring blood draws and core screenings for employees and their spouses. The screenings are scheduled once in the spring and once in late summer. The results of these screenings provide participants with their biometric information, which can then be used to complete the Health Risk Assessment (overall picture of their health and risk factors) and participate in the Health Rewards premium reduction program for 2013.

In April, 108 employees or spouses participated, and Human Resources has received feedback that the addition of dates in the spring made it much easier for some to attend. Additional dates are planned in August and employees/spouses can pick up their results approximately two weeks after each event.

RECREATION SERVICES

Easter fun – Three Easter activities were offered this year through Recreation Services, and all three enjoyed great success!

The annual Eggstravaganza on Saturday, April 7, welcomed participants to be in the parade with the Easter Bunny at 11:30 a.m. The weather was absolutely perfect, and the Easter Bunny came at about 10:30 to interact with those waiting for the parade. It started at the Broomfield Bay parking lot and ended up at John Shaw Field where about 250 kids enjoyed an egg hunt.

With the parents and grandparents present to watch the egg hunt, there were about 800 to 1000 attendees! This was one of the largest attendances ever, and the first time in many years that the event has actually been outside because the weather cooperated.

An Easter indoor party April 5 at the Broomfield Community Center for those ages 2 to 5 offered pictures with the Easter Bunny, face painting, an egg hunt, games, inflatables and prizes. More than 150 kids came.

The second annual Paws in the Park event, sponsored by Camp BowWow; grew almost 70% from its debut in 2011 with 130 dogs participating. The Broomfield Dog Park at the Broomfield County Commons was the location for a bonnet parade and egg hunt solely for the dogs. Participation in the parade doubled from its first year, and the three winners each received a gift basket full of surprises. The egg hunt included plastic eggs filled with dog biscuits that the dogs could sniff out and their owners collected in baskets. As they arrived at the event, each participant received a bag of coupons and dog goodies, complete with a bag to use to clean up after the dogs.

Mini Mini Haha Triathlon - The date for this second annual triathlon designed especially for the little ones is Sunday, August 19. The Mini Mini Haha began as the result of numerous requests made by those who have participated in the Mini Haha over the years. Positive feedback from the first Mini Mini Haha brings the second one this year. Details of the event and registration information will be available in the near future.

Recreation Pass Special - Recreation passes at the Paul Derda Recreation Center will go on sale with special discounts on Monday, May 14. All recreation passes and punch passes are reduced for this sale, which ends June 30. During this time, a recreation pass will include child sitting at no extra charge for those working out at the center. A pass to the Broomfield Bay Aquatic Park will not be included in a pass purchased during this sale.

Relay for Life - Carolyn Johnson of Recreation Services is heading up a team for the upcoming Relay for Life event. Scheduled to take place on June 8 and 9 at Holy Family High School, this fundraiser benefits the American Cancer Society. Cancer survivors, their families and friends, and the community join together to celebrate survival, and remember those who have succumbed from cancer. Broomfield's sign-up page can be found at <http://main.acsevents.org/>. Individuals can sign up there to participate, or contact Johnson at cjohnson@broomfield.org or 303.460.6923.

Gymnastics - For the first time, a one day Spring Break camp for kids ages 4 to 12 was offered for two and a half hours in the gymnastics area at the Derda Center in March. During this time, kids enjoyed supervised and structured activities on the trampolines, in the foam pit, on the inflatable play structures, and on the zip line. A morning session brought an enrollment of 45 kids. An afternoon session had 33 participants.

Seniors - The Healthy Hearts Walkers program resumed its "trek" along the coastline of the United States in April. This group meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays each week, to walk the indoor track at the Paul Derda Recreation Center. Miles walked individually, are combined with those walked by the entire group, to calculate the distance travelled each day.

The program offers health benefits that surpass those produced through merely walking for exercise with the friendships that are forming friendships outside of the activity. Healthy Hearts Walkers are also branching out to volunteer in other activities for active adults, like Meals on Wheels delivery, the Lakeshore Café kitchen and this year's Spring Fashion Show and Tea Party in March.
